(54) Title: WARNING DEVICE AND METHOD

(57) Abstract: A warning device for attachment to packaging of a product which has an expiration date, the device including timer means for counting passage of a pre-set period of time, according to a timing program tailored to the product, to the expiration date, and for providing a signal at the expiration date; an indicator arranged to receive the signal and to provide an indication to differentiate a pre-expiration date period from a post-expiration date period; and a switch coupled to the packaging and arranged to activate the indicator when a person attempts to use the product.
